

Indicted Duryea Denies Any Wrongdoing

JOHN KINGSTON (L), PERRY DURYEA
(UPI TELEPHOTO)

NEW YORK (AP) — The indictment of Republican Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea on election fraud charges was announced today, hurting his chances of challenging Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's chosen successor, Malcolm Wilson, in a GOP primary next year.

The silver-haired Duryea, 52, a wealthy owner of a Long Island lobster fishing business and most powerful legislative leader in the state, denied any wrongdoing.

Both Rockefeller and Lt. Gov. Wilson, who will become governor on Rockefeller's resignation Tuesday also immediately rallied to Duryea's support.

Acting Manhattan Dist. Atty. Alfred J. Scott announced Duryea's indictment along with that of Assembly Majority Leader John Kingston, R-Westbury, and four others on misdemeanor charges.

They were accused of conspiring to put out campaign leaflets for Liberal party Assembly candidates without the permission of the Liberal party. The tactic was intended to drain off Democratic votes in marginal districts, so Republicans could win.

Others indicted on the misdemeanor charges were Assemblyman Alfred A. Delibovi, R-Queens, Duryea aides Henry Mund and I. Lynn Mueller, and James Threault, director of communications for the Assembly.

The indictment not only threatened Duryea's gubernatorial hopes, but also endangered his re-election next month as speaker of the Assembly, where the GOP has a 79-69 majority. The Republicans also control the Senate 37-23. Threault was charged only with failing to disclose who ordered the printing and distribution of political literature.

Duryea and the others were accused of conspiring, as leaders of the Republican Assembly Campaign Committee, to promote election of Republicans in 12 districts by circulating the "Liberal party" literature without revealing that the GOP was behind it.

Duryea's spokesman said the alleged violations cited in the indictments involved dissemination of campaign literature and conspiracy.

However, the spokesman insisted that the Assembly speaker had "never, individually or in concert with others, participated in any effort to commit any violation of the state election law. He is asking for an immediate disposition of the matter and is confident of full and total exoneration."

Duryea and Kingston could not be reached for direct comment.

The 52-year-old speaker, a seven-term assemblyman from Montauk on Long Island, is the most powerful member of the State Legislature and has been widely mentioned as a possible Republican contender in the 1974 gubernatorial race.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, who will be governor when Rockefeller's announced resignation becomes effective Tuesday, issued a joint statement defending Duryea and Kingston as "dedicated and outstanding public servants and men of the utmost integrity and honor."

The statement by Rockefeller and Wilson, both Republicans, said that "because of our complete confidence in the speaker and majority leader, our faith in both of them remains unshaken."

In 13 years, Duryea worked his way up from a freshman assemblyman to Assembly Speaker and a potential candidate for governor.

Now all that is endangered by the indictments returned today accusing him of participating in a vote-siphoning scheme.

Even his closest friends agree that his gubernatorial hopes have been dealt a mortal blow and his present position of power may be in danger. Even if he is found innocent, Duryea may be too busy defending himself to be effective as a leader.

Typographical Goof Sends Stocks Plummeling

Tough New Energy Curbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon announced today tough, new energy conservation measures ranging from cutting down office building lights to an edict requiring government officials to give up their limousines.

Making an appearance at a White House news conference held by his new energy advisor, William E. Simon, Nixon said he was encouraged by initial reports on the effect of energy conservation measures now in effect.

Gasoline consumption has dropped 15 per cent over the last three weeks, Nixon said.

Simon called the news conference to elaborate on the fuel allocation program he announced Wednesday — including a morning announcement that gasoline production would be cut 25 per cent and a correction 10 hours later revising the reduction to 5 per cent.

The government expressed "total embarrassment" over what it said was a typographical error that went uncorrected throughout the day while stocks plummeted.

Nixon told reporters during his appearance in the White House press room — during which he did not submit to questions — that if cooperation among Americans continues, the nation will be able to deal with the energy crisis. These were among new conservation measures he announced:

—Cutbacks in lighting for all commercial and industrial buildings including retail stores, factories and offices.

—Scattered violence marks start of truckers' park-in

—Highway lighting will be cut by half except for ramps and freeways.

—Establish an industry energy audit committee to find ways to cut consumption.

—By Jan. 1 use of limousines will be halted by all government officials, except for Nixon and Vice President Gerald R. Ford.

—Federal agencies will be required to use "fuel efficient" cars and cut by 20 per cent the number of miles driven in connection with government work.

—Thermostats in government buildings will be set at 65 to 68 during working hours and cut back to 55 degrees when the buildings are closed.

Simon said that the federal government reduced its energy consumption by 20 per cent during July, August and September and gasoline use by 27 per cent. Fuel oil use was trimmed by 15 per cent.

According to Simon, the nation, in the three weeks ending Nov. 30, was able to cut its use of crude oil by 1.1 billion barrels a day. The latest figures on gasoline consumption showed a 15 per cent drop. The overall three week total for gasoline, heating oil, diesel fuel and jet fuel reached 29 per cent, Simon said.

"Everyone will sacrifice something but none will have to suffer," Nixon said. After appearing with Simon, Nixon met with a delegation of governors to push his energy program.

Nixon said he was optimistic about chances of approval shortly by Congress of emergency energy legislation. He predicted the bill would be passed before Congress recesses, possibly one week from today, until Jan. 21.

Paltz Board Clears Three More

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ — In a report released Wednesday afternoon the Board of Ethics of the Town of New Paltz has cleared all the town officials involved in a large land deal, which became a source of controversy in New Paltz last summer, of any wrongdoing under state or local law.

The report was released by Supervisor Theodore Lasher, who had requested the broad report on the matter. Town Attorney Wendell Harp had requested a report on his own conduct as a principal in the land transaction, and he released the report on his own conduct earlier this week.

The reports were almost identical, finding no ethics laws broken by any of the officials involved.

Lasher had requested a report July 10 from the Board of Ethics to determine "if a conflict of interest exists" for former Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello, Planning Board Members Anthony Costa and Ashton Hart, and Harp because of their participation in the formulating and passage of the Planned Unit Development (PUD) section of the town's zoning ordinance Aug. 9, 1972. At the time of the passage of the PUD section, which was less restrictive as to the location of such developments than the section it replaced, Moriello, Hart and Harp, together with Harp's brother, Robert, and Joseph and William Costa, uncle and father of Anthony Costa, controlled either through ownership or option a tract of about 210 acres off Huguenot Street in New Paltz in the area of the Locust Tree Golf and Country Club.

It was charged, most vigorously by John Logan and Ralph Kulseng, two Democratic candidates for town office, that the PUD section boosted the value of the land greatly. The 210-acre tract meets the 200-acre minimum size limit for a PUD in New Paltz. Logan and Kulseng charged conflict of interests on the part of the town officials involved, and after considerable public clamor Lasher and Harp requested the ethics board reports.

The ethics board reports, dated Dec. 5, dealt with both Article 18 of the General Municipal Law and with the local ethics code.

Article 18 is concerned with conflicts of interest regarding contracts. The ethics board found that there was no contract between the town and the partnership, and thus no conflict of interest as far as this portion of the law is concerned. The ethics board noted that this opinion was shared by Kingston Attorney Charles Gaffney, who had been engaged by the ethics board, and the Division of Legal Services of the State Department of Audit and Control.

The ethics board also investigated the question of disclosure. Lasher had not requested this in his letter to the ethics board, though Harp had. The ethics board noted that the disclosure question had been raised in the matter, and assumed the responsibility of delivering an opinion on it.

A section in Article 18 of the General Municipal Law deals with "disclosure in certain applications." The ethics board found that none of the applications mentioned in the law, nor any applications whatever concerning the land, had been made by the partnership to the town, and therefore no disclosure of control of the land was required.

The town Code of Ethics has a section on "disclosure of interest in legislation." The ethics board ruled that disclosure of the partnership's control of the land was not required by this section, as the PUD law was "general in nature" and "nothing more than enabling legislation" which affected "all potentially eligible lands affected by town legislation."

Harp said Wednesday that he was "very pleased with the decision," but that it was "the only way it could have come out, from our point of view."

He denounced the conflict of interest charges as "a political ploy, with no justifiable background in fact. We have done nothing wrong, as the report indicates."

Costa said Wednesday, "We've been vindicated." He noted that the Board of Ethics had examined the appropriate sections of both state and local law.

"I hope it (the ethic's board's report) will get the same kind of prominence the original allegations got," said Costa. "It clears the air for everybody's benefit."

Harp had previously said the Board of Ethics had vindicated his position that no wrongdoing had taken place. Moriello could not be reached Wednesday for comment.

Sewer Digging Uncovers Skeleton

By MATT SPIRENG

TOWN OF ULSTER — Early Wednesday morning eight-year-old Becky Tinnie said to her father, "Daddy, find me a skull today."

Only a few hours later the strange but seemingly prophetic wish of the little third grader came true as her father, Don Tinnie, of 1011 Columbia Street, Town of Ulster, and three other workmen, who were digging a sewer line trench off Richmond Parkway, uncovered a human skull and part of an attached skeleton.

The bizarre discovery left authorities somewhat baffled today as to the origin and age of the crumbling bones which apparently could be the ancient remains of an Indian who once roamed the area, or those of an early Dutch or English settler . . . or perhaps are somewhat more modern.

The consensus of opinion from state police officials who flocked to the scene Wednesday seemed to be that if the human whose remains were unearthed was a victim of foul play, he (or she) and the perpetrator of the crime have probably long been dead—the latter as a victim of old age. There are, in fact, no indications that any dastardly deeds were committed on the body before it was deposited in the shallow grave apparently many decades ago. "It's probably an Indian," one investigator said. But the skull and other bones which were removed from the trench will have to be submitted to more scientific scrutiny before a more certain determination of the origin and age of the skeleton can be made. State police are to take the skull to the State University College at New Paltz today.

Where members of the Anthropology Department will examine it. Arrangements are underway to have the rest of the skeleton excavated by a team from the New Paltz Anthropology Department.

The mystery of the skull began at about 10 a.m. Wednesday as Tinnie and Robert Schellpeper, employees of Wellington Bill Beckert, and Bruce Carmen and Larry Snyder, employees of Stuart Smedes, were digging the trench for a sewer line on property of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd R. LeFever.

Suddenly Tinnie struck bone with his shovel, and further scraping at the dirt revealed a skull, partially destroyed by the shovel, but basically intact. Little Becky Tinnie's strange request was seemingly fulfilled.

The skull appeared to be small — perhaps that of a young adult, or a small person — but the teeth were well developed. It was apparently in the ground for a very long

Kingston Hospital Re-Plans

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Anthony R. Triulzi, administrator at Kingston Hospital, said today that Benedictine Hospital's announcement on Wednesday to withdraw from an agreement to consolidate obstetric and pediatric services "came as an absolute surprise" to him and to Kingston Hospital officials.

"It makes us change our whole plans," Triulzi told the Freeman. "We will have to change our whole outlook towards 1974. Our budget will have to be reviewed. Our expansion plans will have to be reviewed. We'll have to go over everything at this point."

Triulzi also issued a brief statement authorized by the Kingston Hospital Board, "We deeply regret the decision of the period of time, as only the most careful handling kept it from crumbling. The LeFever's, who arrived home to find police and reporters on their doorstep, were quite amazed and interested in the discovery. LeFever explained that the land where his house now stands was formerly an orchard on the Kiersted Farm, and prior to that was part of a grant from the Indians to the English. Mrs. LeFever said she has found Indian arrowheads in her flower beds. They have resided there since about 1940.

the announcement of the combining of these departments only at Benedictine Hospital and a few short weeks ago (Sept. 25) are still valid and persuasive. We do not believe it to be in the best interest of the public we both strive to serve to continue these departments in both our institutions.

"The substantial deficits and the unused facilities in both hospitals we believe raised in the community from necessitate the consolidation as was agreed to after long study and proposed by outside consultants," the statement concluded.

About two weeks ago, the New York State Health Department ruled that it was discussed merger of certain permissible for a hospital to areas for about five years prior shift beds from obstetrics to the Sept. 25 "precedent" announcement that situations where the obstetric they would consolidate their pediatric occupancy level was pediatric and obstetric services declining.

Tinnie said, "It seems like all through here where we have been digging we've been finding clay pipe stems and animal bones." He displayed some of the pipe stems which were the type used by the earliest white settlers of the area.

At present these pipe stems are all he will be able to bring home to his daughter, as it may be some time before it is decided what will be done with the skull. The final decision will rest with Coroner William S. Keyser, according to state police.

Health Ratings 'Public'

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON An intensive drive to clean up food establishments in Ulster County and make public their health inspection ratings, as reported by The Daily Freeman in November, received fresh impetus this week with the Board of Health giving Health Commissioner Bartholomew J. Dutto wholehearted support in his stepped-up enforcement program. In the commissioner's post a little more than seven months, Dr. Dutto greeted with great enthusiasm the board's decision to make the public aware of the health ratings given the county's 600 food service establishments. It opens the door for his pursuit of a program of repeated inspections, prosecution of constant violators, the imposition of fines or the closing of a repeated offender's establishment. The commissioner also plans an educational program for the proprietors of food establishments. Following presentation of his plan to the health board, Dr. Dutto was given unanimous approval for making public, on a regular basis, full disclosure of restaurant inspection ratings. Reports of violations will be released to the news media as inspections are completed, he explained. Benjamin A. Storms, president of the Board of Health, introduced the measure.

Algeria and Egypt First On the Kissinger Mission

LONDON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, heavily guarded because of death threats, began a seven-day Middle East mission today aimed at getting Arabs and Israelis to the peace table next week.

Kissinger planned talks with government leaders in Algeria and Egypt on the first day of his four-day tour, his second since the end of October's 17-day Middle East war.

The secretary of state also planned to stop in Saudi Arabia, Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and Israel before going to Geneva for the scheduled opening Tuesday of a full-scale Middle East peace conference.

Kissinger's five-nation trip to the region last month led to Arabs and Israelis approving a six-point truce plan aimed at solidifying the cease-fire and laying the groundwork for the Geneva talks.

Israeli and Egyptian negotiators settled five of the six points in ensuing truce talks, but broke off the discussions two weeks ago when they failed to agree on troop pullbacks.

On the eve of his departure, Kissinger called on Western Europe, Japan and Canada to join the United States in a crash program to end the world energy crisis. He urged the creation of a multinational team to work out a common plan of action and said the United States was prepared to offer "major financial" backing.

Kissinger faced some tough bargaining on his mission to get the Geneva talks under way. Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has threatened an Israeli boycott unless Syria releases a list of an estimated 102 troops captured in the 1973 war. The Syrians so far have refused to discuss the matter.

A government spokesman in Tel Aviv said today the Israeli cabinet would meet Friday to decide whether to attend the talks. Strict security was laid on at all points of Kissinger's itinerary following word from the State Department in Washington of serious threats against his life.

Despite the threats, Kissinger extended his Middle East tour to include Algeria, one of the most militant Arab states. Aides said the trip to Algiers was to widen Kissinger's consultations before the Geneva talks.

Saxbe Firmly For Jaworski

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General-designate William B. Saxbe says he would fight for the right of special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski to conduct an independent investigation.

He pledged to the Senate Judiciary Committee on Wednesday that he would do everything in his power "to see the investigation is not impaired."

"I only reserve the right to complain if I don't think that it is moving fast enough, which I don't anticipate," he said.

The Republican senator from Ohio, nominated by President Nixon to succeed Elliot L. Richardson as attorney general, is evidence under White House assured of committee approval.

But a vote was delayed at least until this afternoon when a closed session was scheduled. The committee agreed before voting to take testimony from Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork about his amendment last month of the special prosecutor's charter.

The amendment provided that the prosecutor's investigation could not be limited without the concurrence of a consensus of eight congressional leaders.

Bork said this was intended to safeguard Jaworski's independence, but some committee members expressed concern the effect could be just the opposite.

Saxbe, excused as a witness late Wednesday, testified that he would not hesitate to say no to any White House effort to limit the Watergate investigation.

Saxbe also testified that, if confirmed by the Senate, he would not carry out a presidential order to fire Jaworski for Nixon taking court action to obtain evidence under White House control.

But he said that in these circumstances he would not resign either, as Richardson did when ordered by Nixon to fire Archibald Cox as the special prosecutor.

Most of the hearing was devoted to obtaining assurances from Saxbe that he would not interfere with or try to limit the prosecutor's investigation.

Mills Says Nixon Unwise In Deduction on Papers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House-Senate committee which will examine President Nixon's tax returns, says he thinks Nixon was unwise to deduct $576,000 for the gift of his vice presidential papers to the nation.

"I think that any public official who files a tax return has to be holier than thou," Mills said. "Very frankly, had I been the President's attorney I would have advised him not to take the deduction."

Mills talked to reporters after the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue taxation — composed of the senior five members of the Senate Finance Committee and the senior five members of the House Ways and Means Committee — decided to go beyond Nixon's request and conduct an unlimited inquiry into Nixon's federal tax payments of 1969-72.

The President had asked in a Dec. 8 letter for a ruling only on two tax procedures which saved him about $300,000.

In other developments: —A spokesman said Sen.

Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., had been giving his papers to the Minnesota Historical Society ever since he was mayor of Minneapolis and had taken tax deductions for their appraised value. The spokesman said a detailed statement on Humphrey's tax treatment of the papers would be forthcoming in a day or two.

Members of Congress' two tax-writing committees said no pressures had been exerted by either Nixon or former President Lyndon B. Johnson in deciding when to make effective the tax law change which denied public figures the right to deduct the value of their papers. The Senate voted on Jan. 1, 1969, cutoff but the date was changed to July 25, 1969 — a change that benefited Nixon and presumably helped Johnson too.

—Mills said the disclosure that Nixon paid taxes on more than $1.1 million income at the rate of less than 7 per cent did not convince him that tax reform is necessary. If anything, he said, he felt Congress may have gone too far in reforming taxes in 1969.

Ready on Tape Gap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Technical experts are ready to deliver a preliminary report of their findings. Lawyers from the White House and the special Watergate prosecutor's office also planned to be there to receive the report.

Members of the panel of experts who examined the tape during the past two weeks were scheduled to meet today with the judge in his chambers to deliver a preliminary report of their findings.

Lawyers from the White House and the special Watergate prosecutor's office also planned to be there to receive the report.

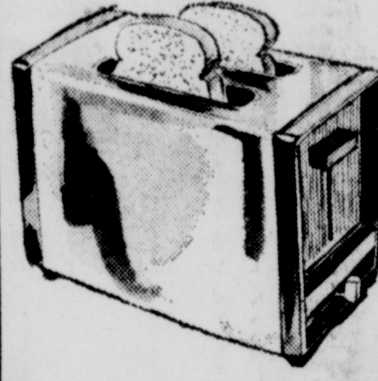

Meanwhile, Sirica signed an order Wednesday authorizing the empaneling of a third grand jury to receive evidence from the special prosecutor's staff.

Rhinebeck Board Rejects Palermo Proposal Changes

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK Giving a list of some 28 reasons, the Rhinebeck Town Board Wednesday night unanimously voted disapproval of a zoning change that would have allowed the construction of N. M. Palermo's 800-unit Ferneliff housing subdivision.

The vote put to rest, at least temporarily, the controversy that has surrounded the proposal in its ten-month history, a town matter that generated the largest turnout in history for a public hearing (more than 800 for the first hearing) with the body of opinion expressed opposing the project.

Thomas Frost, Palermo's attorney, commented following the announcement by Supervisor William Allen of the board's decision that he anticipated the firm is exploring whether it would be possible to conform its proposal to the board's objections.

Some of the many reasons listed on the resolution on Ferneliff were: the area is zoned low density residential; it appeared inconsistent with the objectives of the town's comprehensive plan; the Dutchess County Planning Board recommended disapproval; the Town Environmental Commission, Rhinebeck Board of Education, both recommended disapproval; the Hudson River Valley Commission was not consulted.

Also: No water survey was conducted; the plans appeared at variance with reality in such things as topography and vegetation coverage; staging aspects were not specific enough; schools and fire protection were judged inadequate; it was judged that roads could not handle increased traffic that would be generated.

One interesting sidelight developed: Supervisor Allen read letters of resignation from Town Planning Board Chairman Robert Shackleton and member John von der Leith, both read without reasons for their sudden departure. The Town Planning Board had recommended approval of the Palermo project.

In other town business, the report of the Town Environmental Conservation on a recent town attitude survey was stated to have been concluded, with some unforeseen results.

The primary reason for the survey was to ascertain how town residents felt about their social, physical, historical, and economic environment.

One question, "Do you hope Rhinebeck will retain its rural atmosphere?" was answered 99 per cent "yes." The survey received 40.8 per cent returns, a high percentage in light of a natural average of only about 17 per cent.

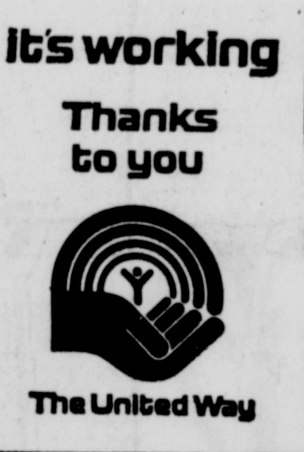

Another question on whether townspeople wanted river front property retained for recreational and open space was agreed to by 69 per cent of those responding.

And a question on whether the village and town governments should combine, a question not seriously explored by either body in recent years, received the endorsement of 62 per cent of those answering.

Allen read a letter from a U.S. Attorney asking when the town planned to undertake extensive repairs to its Rhinecliff Ferry Slip property, regarded by an Army Corps of Engineer report as in a "state of disrepair." The letter said it appeared the town was in violation of the law with regard to the dock.

Allen made note of the fact that three board members were attending their last regular board meeting Wednesday night. They are Justices Herman Tietjen, DeWitt Gurnell, and Councilman Louis Asher.

With the town's realignment, four councilmen and a supervisor will act as legislators, and two justice positions will not have an active voice on decision making. Tietjen will resume his work as town justice; Gurnell is retiring to work on duties as historian and prepare for the Bicentennial; and Asher is retiring because he said he did not have the time for the job anymore.

Zoning Amendments Pass in Paltz

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ The New Paltz Town Board passed amendments to the town's zoning ordinances and zoning map which serve to upzone most of the land in the township at its meeting Wednesday night.

The zoning changes, which had a public hearing Monday night, will change the minimum lot size for the town's agricultural districts from one acre to three and one-half acres, that of the open space zone from one to three acres, and that of the single-family residential zone from one-half to one acre.

Developers will be allowed to use one acre zoning in the single-family residential area if they provide central sewer facilities. Cluster development will only be allowed if a central or municipal-type sewer facility is provided. This facility will be turned over to a district should one be formed.

The upzoning, which affects about 80 per cent of New Paltz land area, was a compromise from what the planning board had first proposed. The initial proposal was to have three and five acre zoning in the agricultural zone, but this was roundly decried at a public hearing and had not sat well with the town board, which requested a modification.

In addition to the zoning amendments, the town board directed that a letter be sent to the planning board requesting a review and recommendations for change in the town's Planned Unit Development (PUD) and variable density residential (RV) zoning sections.

Village Planning Board Member Ralph Kulseng, from the floor, pointed out that the stricter new density schedule could encourage the development of PUDs and RVs, which allow higher density than what normal zoning would allow.

The planning board informed the town board that Dr. David Mesches had been reelected its chairman. Mesches term on the board expires this month, and the town board reappointed him for another seven-year term.

Mrs. Helen Karsten was named the town's representative on the county planning board.

The planning board also requested that the recreational contribution on subdivisions be raised from $100 to $300 per acre. The town board approved the development application of Kentucky Fried Chicken, which will locate on Route 299 near Cherry Hill. The planning board had previously approved it.

Donald Martin presented two petitions to the board from residents in the area of Fulton Road, which is being extended in a joint town-village venture to provide another way east and west through New Paltz. The petitions, which Maring said had about 50 signatures each, requested the barring of trucks from the new road and the finding of a bypass east and west on the south side of New Paltz.

The reorganizational meeting was set for Jan. 2 at 10 a.m.

Area Rescue Unit In Full Operation

NEW PALTZ advanced first aid, and on each tour of duty there is at least one Emergency Medical Technician.

The New Paltz Rescue Squad is now in full operation, having begun operation Dec. 1, offering New Paltz residents first aid and emergency services whenever needed.

Operations Officer Peter Kane reported that the squad is "running smoothly" and said he is "proud of the members who have made the project a success so far."

The squad has 46 members, and offers 24-hour a day service. Each member manning the vehicle is trained in at least

Rescue squad headquarters are located at the corner of Mohonk Avenue and South Manheim Boulevard in New Paltz. New Paltz residents can summon the squad by calling the town's emergency communications center at 255-1323.

For more information about the squad and its activities, questions may be addressed to New Paltz Rescue Squad, P.O. Box 594, New Paltz, 12561.

METESKY LEAVING HOSPITAL

(UPI TELEPHOTO)

Metesky Free Man, All Charges Dropped

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Metesky, an aggrieved ex-employer company employee who planted a series of bombs that injured 22 people and terrorized New York during the 1940s and '50s, was declared a free man Wednesday after nearly 17 years in a mental institution.

"Sixteen years ago, you caused a great deal of turmoil in this city," Acting Supreme Court Justice Joseph Martin told George Metesky, 70. "I remember it well. Many of us had sleepless nights because of the terror you were causing. I expect there'll be no repetition."

Metesky said, "I think the judge is right. There won't be any repetition."

The forty-seven criminal charges against Metesky were dropped under the provisions of a law that calls for prisoners who have been locked up in mental hospitals to be released after they have been held longer than they would have been had they been convicted on criminal charges.

After the court hearing Metesky was sent back to Creedmoor State Hospital, where doctors have ruled him harmless and officials said he would go home today.

Metesky was accused of placing more than 20 homemade bombs in buildings and phone booths in New York City for 16 years until he was caught in 1957.

He was charged with multiple counts of attempted murder,

Fresh Troops In Cambodia's 'Rice' Battle

SAIGON (UPI) — The Communists accused the South Vietnamese government today of bombing residential areas of the Viet Cong's capital of Loc Ninh in a pair of afternoon air strikes.

In Cambodia, field reports said the Phnom Penh government sent fresh troops today into the battle for the strategic "rice road" linking the capital and the paddy fields of Battambang Province.

The Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) said two government warplanes roared over Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, Wednesday afternoon and dropped "dozens of bombs on populous areas" of the town.

"According to initial reports, they bombed Ninh Phu street, wounding many people and destroying many homes," the PRG said in a statement.

The South Vietnamese air force has conducted a series of "punitive" strikes around Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, since the government's Bien Hoa airbase, 14 miles north of the capital, was rocketed Nov. 6.

In other action, the Saigon military command said a South Vietnamese helicopter battled a squadron of armed Communist sampans Wednesday in a clash near the Cambodian border.

Command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said Communist gunners in the sampans opened up on the patrolling UH1 Huey helicopter, damaging the craft and wounding two of the four-man crew.

Hien said the pilot then dived down on the sampans with the Huey's two machine guns blazing. He reported 10 sampans destroyed and 10 Communists killed in the fighting near the town of An Phu, 110 miles west of Saigon.

In Cambodia, field reports said the government sent another battalion of troops into the battle to reopen Phnom Penh to the ricefields of Battambang Province.

The rebels cut the highway Tuesday 12 miles northwest of Phnom Penh and government forces have been fighting since then to reopen the rice road.

The field reports said there were two government battalions at the scene today and two more heading for the fighting. The reports said one government soldier was killed and 19 wounded Wednesday in fighting for the highway.

Rocky's Aide Gets Plum

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Governor Rockefeller has begun clearing his "appointments calendar" by naming his press secretary to a $44,375-a-year state post and appointing the Suffolk County Republican chairman to a $25,000 job.

Rockefeller's office announced the appointments Wednesday evening, slightly more than 24 hours after the governor had announced he would resign next Tuesday and turn the state over to Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson.

Rockefeller's press secretary, Ronald Maiorana, 42, was named commissioner of Off-Track Betting and Lottery. Although OTB and lottery were previously separate operations under the Racing and Wagering Board, they will be combined under Maiorana's direction, Rockefeller said.

The Racing and Wagering Board is headed by Yachtsman Emil Mosbacher Jr. Suffolk County GOP chairman Edwin M. Schwenk was appointed chairman of the newly formed state Sports Authority at a salary of $25,000 a year. Schwenk will resign his current post as a member of the State Power Authority.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea of Montauk, was the guiding force behind establishment of the Sports Authority during the last session of the Legislature.

The authority will be able to issue bonds, to buy, construct, operate and maintain sports facilities for lease to participating communities.

Four other members of the authority are yet to be named. They will most likely be appointed by Wilson after he takes office.

Maiorana, a former reporter for the New York Times, joined the governor's staff in 1968 as an assistant press secretary and was named press secretary in February, 1969.

In announcing the appointment, Rockefeller said he was "deeply grateful to Ron for all he has done in working with all members of the media to keep the public informed."

Shots Fired at One Trucker

Park-In Starts With Violence

(United Press International) being thrown into windshields of moving trucks in Ohio and Pennsylvania, but no injuries were reported.

The scattered reports of nationwide trucking shutdown, violence occurred during the first few hours of a nationwide call for a "park-in" to protest higher diesel fuels and lower speed limits—the same complaints that caused many truck drivers to park on busy highways and tie up traffic in more than a dozen states last week.

Early reports indicated the park-in was gaining momentum in Illinois, Maryland, Nebraska and parts of California, as well as Ohio and Pennsylvania. But in Michigan, some truckers tried to block highways west of Detroit early today.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said the shooting incident occurred on Interstate 80 in Weatherfield. Patrolmen said none of the four shots fired through the truck hit the driver.

In Pennsylvania, state police said at least 25 truck drivers complained that other drivers, usually in cars, threatened or intimidated them. They said the cars would slow down near highway exits, motion them to stop, and then try to persuade them to observe the work stoppage.

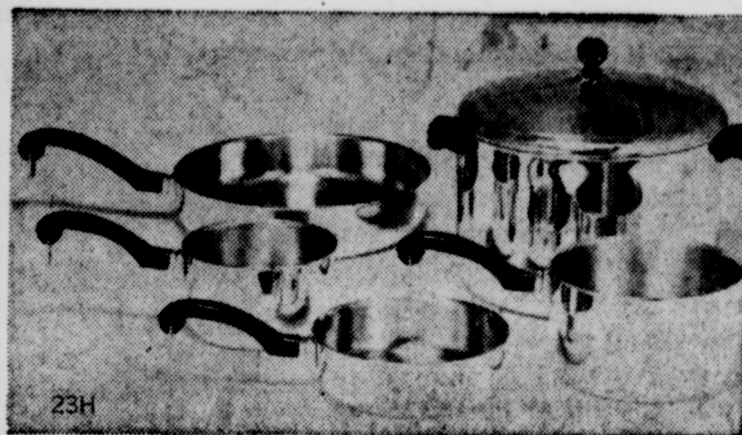

No trucks were reported blocking roadways in Ohio. Patrolmen also reported nine incidents of objects being thrown at trucks in Mahoning County, near the Ohio-Pennsylvania border. In Somerset, Pa., state police reported the windshields of three trucks were smashed on the Pennsylvania Turnpike by two bricks and a bottle dropped from overhead bridges. In Michigan, angry truck drivers parked on expressways in two locations, west and south of Detroit, blocking traffic for less than an hour in both places until police cleared the roads.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 13, 1973

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The unpublished diaries of the late Drew Pearson have remarkable relevance today. If he had lived to celebrate his 76th birthday Thursday, he would have been in a magnificent rage over the Nixon scandals and the oil squeeze. But he scarcely would have been surprised by today's turn of events.

Two decades ago, he was writing in his diaries about Richard Nixon's dirty campaign tactics, the flow of oil money into the Nixon campaigns, Soviet designs on the Middle East, Saudi Arabian Crown Prince Feisal's dislike for the United States and other subjects that bear on today's headlines.

Here are a few excerpts from Drew's diaries, which has stepson Tyler Abell is editing for future publication:

NIXON'S OIL MONEY.

On October 29, 1952, Drew recorded that a source close to the late Speaker Sam Rayburn telephoned from Texas "to tell me about a conspiracy which began about two years ago... to put Nixon into the vice presidency. (The source) claims an untold amount of oil money has been behind Nixon for some time."

Drew wondered how Nixon, back in his wife's cloth-coat days, found the money to purchase a new home. A May 18, 1957, entry states: "Nixon paid $25,000 cash for his new house and got a $50,000 loan from Riggs (National Bank) at 4½ per cent, on which he pays $300 a month. I had to pay six per cent the other day and am paying $500 a month on the $40,000 I borrowed from Riggs. Nixon still hasn't sold his first house, so where did he get the $25,000?"

On May 7, 1957, Drew visited the late President Harry Truman in Independence, Mo., and received a private lecture on the Middle East. Pointing to Israel on the globe, Truman said:

"That's where history began, American history... Most of our wars began down here or in the Balkans."

'YOU'RE ALL COUSINS'

"There's no reason why they can't get along together. I told that to Ibn Saud (then Saudi Arabia's king) when I saw him. 'You're all cousins,' I said, 'you ought to get along with the Jews even if they do call you bastards. You can call them that, too.' He laughed and laughed and laughed. 'We don't deny that Abraham's wife drove us into the desert,' he said."

The following October 1, Drew breakfasted with Lebanon's Foreign Minister Charles Malik, who related an incident involving Saudi Arabia's Crown Prince Feisal, now the king. The diary quotes Malik as saying:

"Crown Prince Feisal, who is terribly jealous of the king, wants to take over. Feisal hates the United States, and the American ambassador, George Wadsworth, had to work on him for some time to get him to come to the United States for American medical help."

"His hatred dates back to his visit here when Israeli boundaries were under discussion and two Zionist girls chased him at the Waldorf into his limousine. There, he kindly rolled down the limousine window and they spat on him."

'FOOLHARDY' VENTURE

A decade before the United States sent combat troops into Vietnam, Drew deplored the idea in his diary. He added in a June 10, 1954, entry that he had talked to Gen. Nathan Twining, then Air Force chief, who agreed "it would be foolhardy to go into Indochina."

Like the muckrakers of today, Drew was under constant investigation. "I had rumors," he wrote on September 20, 1949, "that the White House was waiting to pounce on my 1948 return and sure enough they examined it shortly after it was filed. The tip came from Admiral... of the National Security Council, who said that Truman had ordered my tax returns gone into twice this year — as far back as 1935."

On June 14, 1951, Drew recorded in his diary: "This is the second or third time the FBI has been prying into me this year. Two or three months ago, they had one of their top agents, Maurice Taylor, and a lesser agent, Charles Lyons, interview about 30 witnesses."

"Taylor... tried to find out the names of my servants, whether I had a night watchman, when I went away to the farm, whether the house was unguarded during the trips to the farm, where I kept my files and what my files were like."

'GESTAPO TACTIC'

"He even asked questions as to how I felt toward the FBI and whether I was a real friend of J. Edgar Hoover's."

This is the kind of Gestapo tactic which they had in Germany and Russia. But the FBI has built itself up — partly with my help — to an impregnable position where it can do no wrong. Apparently, civil liberties and the sanctity of a man's home or office now mean nothing."

In a later entry, November 18, 1953, Drew told how he had helped the FBI: "I recall how Attorney General Homer Cummings invited Bob Allen (Drew's co-columnist at the time) and me to dinner in 1933 or 1934 and told us he believed the best cure of kidnapping was to build up the FBI, not only in actual strength but in the strength of public opinion behind it."

"If the underworld came to believe the FBI was invincible, Cummings argued, there would be less kidnapping. To that end, he asked our advice about the appointment of a top-notch public relations man, and those of us present, including Cummings, all agreed on Henry Suydam."

"Henry was appointed and did a terrific job. He really went to town with Hollywood, the radio industry and everyone else to make the FBI invincible."

Pettifogging Critics

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY

There is palpable disappointment that President Nixon's tax returns have not disclosed a secret million dollar fund, or a numbered account in Switzerland; nor ratified the published suspicions of Newsweek about hanky-panky with daughter Tricia's returns. Still, there is a sense that Nixon got away with something. The anti-Nixon fever is comprehensive and undifferentiating.

What is a President of the United States supposed to say to the man who fills out his tax returns? "Don't take any of the exemptions or deductions to which I would be entitled if I were other than President of the United States?" One has the impression that only this would appease his critics.

Mr. Nixon has told us that an appraiser put the value of his papers at just over a half million dollars. In a matter of days, the appraiser was located. He is a reputable man. Yes, he said: that was the value he put on the vice presidential papers, and he would stick by it. Indeed, he thought the papers probably worth even more on the open market, but, he explained, any figure in excess of the figure he gave would not have been particularly useful to the President because of the carry-forward limitations of the relevant provision in the tax code.

Notwithstanding the television commentators took lascivious pleasure in stating that Mr. Nixon, during the years in question, paid a tax about as high as would have been paid by a man whose entire income was $15,000. This is what students of rhetoric would call "an economy." It is quicker than saying the thing whole. But not how differently inflected is the difference. As it stood, the demonstration had the effect of persuading everyone with an income in the range of $15,000 that Nixon had gotten away with something, somehow at the expense of people less well off than he.

The impact would have been different had the commentator said: "Many years ago, the Congress of the United States, while under Democratic control, ruled that the market value of personal papers is deductible as a gift when given to the government or to an educational institution. Presidents have routinely taken advantage of this provision in the tax code in order to minimize their tax exposure. President Nixon did also. It was under President Nixon that the law was revised, to eliminate in the future this particular device."

So it is, really, with San Clemente, though the case is a little different. People are talking about whether the United States government paid for a stray rose bush in the San Clemente garden. So Mr. Nixon announced that he would give his San Clemente estate to the government of the United States after his death.

But this will not still the criticism. Because it will appear, or be made to appear, as though he thought to give San Clemente to the government for the sole purpose of stilling criticisms over the public money used in the redecoration of San Clemente. If it had been John F. Kennedy, criticized for improvements in a house he constructed, while President, on the West Coast, the talk, with the possible exception of Westbrook Pegler, would have been of the far-seeing deregionalization of a Western White House.

Now the carpers are saying that Nixon — concentrate hard, or this one will escape you — should have paid capital gains on this New York apartment because the proceeds from the sale of it were not in fact used to purchase a primary residence in San Clemente because if San Clemente really was his primary residence, why then he would be paying California taxes, which he isn't paying because he is in the White House.

That kind of malevolent pettifoggery is what Mr. Nixon is facing these days. Are you really supposed to call the White House your primary residence for tax reasons? When there is a Constitutional Amendment that says you can't occupy it more than eight years running? Should Nixon have purchased the White House?

The anti-Nixon fever as I say is running very strong, and he has of course been responsible for a lot of it. But if there is a silver lining in the future, it has got to be, as I have observed before, the excesses of his critics. They are too much.

Ford and His Integrity

It's Vice President Gerald R. Ford today.

Tomorrow? Who knows?

The United States has just been witness to the first application of the 25th Amendment, passed by Congress in 1965, which provides that the vacancy can be filled by presidential appointment confirmed by a simple majority of both houses.

So now the speculation starts and the interesting thing is that at the moment more talking is being done by Republicans than by the Democrats.

Mr. Ford assumes his new position after a quarter-century of not particularly spectacular service in the House of Representatives and the best that political insiders now say about him is that he's a nice fellow with very few enemies. That's not especially high approbation.

But President Nixon knew what he was doing when he named the House minority leader on Oct. 12 to succeed Spiro T. Agnew who two days earlier had resigned in disgrace. The President was fully aware that had he nominated a more charismatic individual with a strong record of leadership, the nominee would have run into trouble with the Democratic majority.

Mr. Ford breezed through the Senate with only three votes cast against him while his margin in the House was equally impressive.

Democrats still are looking warily at the new vice president despite the fact that he has said he is not interested in the presidency.

The Democrats fear that Mr. Ford would be unbeatable for a full term if he became President through resignation or as a sequel to the impeachment process. So they have maintained a low profile.

But in the meantime fellow Republicans have damned the new veep with faint praise.

Senator Percy of Illinois, for example, who has made no effort to cover his presidential ambitions, noted that the former House GOP boss is "strong on integrity but does not have the makings of a great leader."

"I believe," said the candid Mr. Percy, "that Gerald Ford would be the first to say that on the basis of his record so far, he probably will not be put in the category of the potential greats among vice presidents."

Nevertheless, Senator Percy too saw Mr. Ford as a formidable presidential threat. He said out loud what many of his peers were thinking — that there was a distinct possibility Ford would become President through "a series of circumstances."

Senator Javits of New York was less circumspect. Now that Mr. Ford has been confirmed, he said, "consideration of resignation or any call for resignation (of the President) will probably come to the front."

With so many unpredictable elements involved, it would be an exercise in futility to attempt to forecast what the next few weeks hold. It's still a good bet that President Nixon will not be impeached and will not resign.

At least, however, we have a "man of integrity" ready to step in should the above-mentioned "series of circumstances" dictate a change in the presidency.

From Garbage Comes Power

The crisis is developing many ideas for adding energy but none so down-to-earth as garbage-or trash-into-power. Federal estimates are that eventually the nation might be able to get a quadrillion British Thermal units of energy from garbage, an amount equal to the nation's entire consumption for residential and commercial lighting.

Government officials and utility representatives from across the country hailed the idea, both with reservations. Government officials like the proposal because it is a way of solving the garbage disposal problem. Utility representatives are increasingly interested as the shortage of fuel worsens.

There are objections. Garbage burns best in power plants designed to burn coal. Environmental officials want studies made of pollution that would be released. For instance, plastics could release poisonous chlorine into the air. Most plans call for burning a fraction of the garbage mixed with coal.

Fortunately, for the last two years garbage has been burned at a power plant in St. Louis under an experimental Protection Agency. Many of the questions can be answered by this experiment.

BERRY'S WORLD

"People are criticizing the space program based on the amount of fuel we use. Figure out how many miles to the gallon we're getting!"

Washington Calling

Big Business Wavers on Nixon

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — A beleaguered Administration has reached a plateau of sorts with a new Vice President and the painful exercise of the President's personal finances put out on the table. It is a pause that coincides with the coming Christmas holiday, and Mr. Nixon and the little circle of loyalists around him can breathe more easily.

But ahead are more peaks, snow-capped and formidable, which must be overcome in toughing it out through 1974 and beyond. Moreover, a new element has been added in the climate of adversity. Rumbles of discontent have come from the big-business community which contributed so generously to the President's re-election.

The love of this community for the Republican party, so often demonstrated in the past, has not dimmed. The concern today is over the long-term damage that Nixon can do to the Grand Old Party with the hurdles of 1974 and '76. They are also watching that nervous barometer, the stock market. As the head of one investment house put it: "Sure, the market might waver a bit if Nixon resigned. But with Ford in the office it would go up a hundred points within a short time."

What the more astute business leaders see is an unending rerun of the Watergate follies. This will not come through Senate investigation but by way of the courts. At least 12 to 14 indictments of Watergate principals — and that is a conservative estimate — are still to come. Shortly after the first of the year they will begin to be returned, each one with a prominent name.

The trials could begin as early as the spring, although that is unlikely since the defense can employ a series of delaying tactics. They will go over to early fall just as the Congressional campaign is starting. That is a grisly prospect not only for Republican candidates but for the party itself. Unending headlines dealing with the alleged crimes of Watergate participants will make an unhappy backdrop.

The prospect is also very real that disclosures during the trials will further implicate the President. His two former cabinet officers, Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans and Attorney General John N. Mitchell, indicated several months ago, succeeded in delaying their trial until January 7. The case against Stans and Mitchell had been considered weak, since defense attorneys could plead that relevant evidence on White House tapes was not available. Now, however, the White House has agreed to supply a critical tape.

Indicted with Mitchell and Stans last May was Robert L. Vesco, charged with making a secret contribution of $200,000 in cash allegedly to block a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Vesco's tangled finances. Vesco has just won a verdict in a Bahamian court denying his extradition to the United States.

He has also established a base in Argentina where he can operate with the huge sums he is charged with extracting from International Controls Corp. Vesco had the help of the President's two brothers, Donald and Edward, who will be subpoenaed during the trial.

At one point it was feared that the absence of Vesco as a key witness would be a serious handicap. But, with the tape from the White House believed to be relevant, this is now discounted. There is also a possibility that both Stans and Mitchell may be indicted in Washington on other charges.

Important elements in the business community look at this with dismay. They see Gerald Ford not so much as another Harry Truman but as a Calvin Coolidge. After all, Truman had his Fair Deal and various pesky reforms that business didn't like. They remember Coolidge's immortal words: "The business of government is business."

Coolidge was elected in 1924. Becoming President with the death of Warren G. Harding the previous year, he had moved quickly to clean up the mess of Teapot Dome. He had stood clear of that sordid scandal and, fortunately for Coolidge and his party, the Democrats were in a shambles of dissension.

Nor has business forgotten that with Coolidge that great bull market boom began. It roared on through 1928 when Silent Cal was no longer in the White House. As 1929 proved, that boom was slightly excessive. Nevertheless, the financial community can dream of something a bit more moderate with the mess in Washington tidied up by President Ford.

Record Ransom Paid by Family Of Young Getty

ROME (UPI) — A record $3.4 million ransom has been paid American oil billionaire, police to the alleged kidnapers of J. sources said today.

"All of the money has now been paid," the sources close to the investigation said. "They are waiting from one moment to the next for him to be freed."

The ransom was paid in several installments to the alleged kidnapers who have kept young Getty more than five months and at one point sent a human ear to a Rome newspaper saying it would be followed by other parts of his body unless the ransom was paid.

Gail Harris, mother of young Getty, refused to comment on the report of the payment, insisting: "Nothing has changed. Everything is just as it was before."

Town Residents Honor Rosendale Supervisor

KINGSTON Democrat Richard Glazer in November. There wasn't much in the way of regular business. The board authorized the advertisement of bids for a new bulldozer for the landfill. "There's been a big improvement out there," said DeFelice, but there's still a lot of work to be done if we're going to meet Department of Environmental Conservation regulations. The bids will be opened at the next town board meeting on Jan. 9 at 7 p. m. Prior to that, on Dec. 30 at 1 p. m., the annual town audit will be conducted. On Jan. 5, at 7 p. m., the town board will hold its annual organizational meeting.

Detectives Investigating Burglaries in Kingston

KINGSTON Apparent burglaries in two residences in the city were reported to detectives of the Kingston Police Department today.

A breakin at the home of Sol Holzman of 12 Grandview Avenue netted thieves about $450 in merchandise, according to police. Eight or nine sweaters, a camera, suede coat, a carton of cigarettes and a quantity of prescription drugs were reported stolen. Detectives said entry was gained sometime Wednesday by breaking a window in a rear kitchen door and opening the door from the inside.

Detectives also reported a breakin at a home at 308 Main Street, occupied by Bertram Wilde. A small window in a rear kitchen door was smashed, enabling the intruders to unlock the door. One room was ransacked, said detectives, but nothing has been reported missing.

Detectives also probed today a reported breakin at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School, but said complete details were not available.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed today following heavy losses on Wednesday. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead a fraction but declining issues had a slight edge over gainers on the Big Board.

Simmons up 1/4 at 13% was the Big Board volume leader followed by Sybron Corp. down 1/4 at 27. First National City down 1/4 at 42. General Telephone & Electric unchanged at 24 1/2, and Chrysler up 1/4 at 15 1/2.

Stocks took heavy losses Wednesday amid renewed fears about the consequences of an energy shortage.

Trash Fire
A fire of undetermined origin in a large trash dumping container located at the rear of the main building of Kingston High School kept firemen busy for nearly an hour Wednesday night. Fire fighters were called to the scene at about 8:10 p.m. and all trucks were back in service by shortly after 9 p.m. after dousing the fire. The blaze scorched paint on the container, but no damage was reported to the school building.

Blame Administration Errors for Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fear of political damage to the Nixon administration in an election year was one of several factors which may have contributed to the fuel shortage. Senate investigators have been told.

In a series of interviews conducted under oath, some of the government's most senior oil policy planners acknowledged that mistakes and miscalculations made over the last three years were partially responsible for the energy crisis.

The officials said warnings that American oil production was peaking and would soon start tapering off were not heeded. They said timely steps were not taken to increase imports of foreign crude oil to take up the slack.

"They gambled that there would be no shortages and that the most severe thing that would happen would be the development of a tight supply-demand situation," said LaVern F. Duffy who headed the oil shortage probe for the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations.

Duffy's testimony was prepared for delivery to the subcommittee headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Duffy entered into the record sections of the transcripts of several of the interviews.

In one of the interviews, William C. Truppner, director of resource analysis of OEP, acknowledged that the upcoming 1972 presidential election could be a factor behind the agency's reluctance to change the wage-price freeze.

The interviews also indicated that only a few oil policy officials had any expertise in that resource analysis of OEP, acknowledged that the upcoming 1972 presidential election could be a factor behind the agency's reluctance to change the wage-price freeze.

Vesco Visa Is Canceled

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The government Wednesday canceled a residence visa issued to fugitive financier Robert Vesco three months ago and said the chief of Argentina's immigration service—the man who issued it—was fired.

Vesco and his business associate, Ulrich J. Strickler, were issued permanent immigrant visas Sept. 6 along with a guarantee they would be immune from extradition from Argentina.

The government announced Wednesday following an investigation that Edmund Gnani, head of the National Immigration Office, was responsible for issuing the visas and was fired.

In effect, the announcement reversed an earlier denial by the government that visas and guarantees had been offered to the two men.

An Argentine federal court judge, who has since retired, ruled in a closed court session Oct. 22 that since pending U.S. charges against Vesco had "political overtones," he could not be deported from Argentina.

A court in the Bahamas last week denied a U.S. government extradition request and ruled Vesco could remain. The U.S. government Tuesday said it had decided not to appeal the court decision.

Vesco is charged with fraud in the transfer of $50,000 from the United States to the Bahamas. He also faces charges in a Watergate-related case in New York, along with former Attorney General John Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans.

The second charge alleged that Mitchell and Stans intervened with the Security and Exchange Commission on Vesco's behalf in exchange for a $200,000 contribution by the financier to President Nixon's re-election fund.

Ends Testimony

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Robert Maheu, the former head of Howard Hughes' Nevada business empire, Wednesday wound up two days of testimony to a federal grand jury investigating the financier's takeover of Hughes Airwest.

His testimony, as is usual in grand jury cases, was not made public.

Newspaper publisher H. M. Greenspun, who appeared for an hour Wednesday, was scheduled to return to the stand today.

Greenspun, publisher of the Las Vegas Sun, told reporters he "might have some information...both from a personal and maybe from a newspaper viewpoint." Greenspun, in other probes, has refused to surrender newspaper files to any government agency or disclose confidential news sources.

Government sources have said the grand jury is looking into Hughes' purchase in 1969 of Airwest. The Securities and Exchange Commission is said to be investigating charges by some Airwest stockholders that the price of their shares was deliberately driven down just before the sale.

It was not known whether the grand jury was also looking into the controversial $100,000 contribution by Hughes to President Nixon's re-election campaign. The money was given to Nixon's close friend, "Bebe" Rebozo, who said he kept it in a safe deposit box without Nixon's knowledge and later returned it to Hughes.

A Senate Watergate Committee investigator, Terry Lenzner, said in a transcript made public in Washington this week that it has been charged that the Hughes Tool Co. received special benefits in return for the money. The benefits allegedly included "the President's approval of the sale of Airwest airlines to Hughes," he said.

At the time of the airline purchase, Maheu ran the Nevada operations of the secretive Hughes. Maheu was

Visit Postponed

The annual visit of the New York State American Legion Commander, William H. Kelly to Ulster County Saturday night at Lloyd Post 193, Highland, has been postponed according to Ulster County American Legion Commander Orville Whitaker of Saugerties.

No reason for the postponement was given, but Whitaker did state the appearance would be re-scheduled for sometime in April.

Listen, Veteran . . . 2nd Chance

KINGSTON Ever Wish You Could Have a Second Chance? If you're a veteran eligible for educational benefits under the current GI Bill then you can finish high school and get that diploma so you will be able to go on to college. Financial assistance may be obtained while you're studying and it won't even be deducted from your eligibility for college assistance. Right now you can get $220 monthly, and if you have dependents you receive even more.

New Legislation: Wives and children of totally and permanently disabled service-connected veterans and surviving widows and children of veterans who died as a result of a service-connected disability may be eligible for hospital and medical care under a new law. The legislation, a section of the Veterans Health Care Expansion Act of 1973, became effective Sept. 1. It is Public Law 93-82. However, if the care is currently available under the medical care program provided for certain dependents of active duty and retired members of the Armed Forces those individuals are precluded from participating in the new program. Individuals who wish detailed information on all medical and hospital benefits available to veterans and their families are urged to visit the local counseling center of the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs located at County Office Building, Kingston, New York. List Winners In Bike-a-Thon

KINGSTON — Winners were announced today in the recent successful American Cancer Society Bike-A-Thon which to date has raised almost $3,400, according to Diane Demskie, chairman of the event and "Miss Hope" in 1973.

The award for the top overall money collected went to Daniel Stott of Lucas Avenue Ext., Kingston, who raised $252. He received a 10-speed Firestone bicycle donated by Bernie Singer, Firestone dealer. First runner-up was Miss Katherine Heavey RN, of Smith Avenue, Kingston, who collected $226 and won the senior woman entry. Second runner-up was City Judge Hubert A. Richter, who brought in $191 to date. All three will receive inscribed American Cancer Society bike trophies.

Other awards were highest pledges per mile. Mrs. Kay Watzka, a surgical supervisor at Benedictine Hospital; and Brenda St. Paul, an employee at Kingston Hospital. Largest organized group, St. James Youth Prayer Group, with 13 riders. Largest family group, The Francis Watzka family of Amsterdam Avenue. Senior man entry, Hollis Burhans of Hurley Heights. Junior girl-boy entry, Leslie Kronick, age 11, and Norman Bowen, age 10. The best decorated bicycle award went to Edward McSpirt, first; Norman Bowen, second and Don Lare and Brenda St. Paul, third, riding a tandem.

Miss Demskie a Benedictine surgical nurse expressed heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the merchants and business people who donated prizes, to the community at large for their vital support and to the bike riders who made it all possible. Funds raised will be applied to the 1974 Cancer Crusade in April to support the Society's programs of research, education and service to cancer patients.

This Cemetery Provides Resting Spot for Pets

HUDSON, Ohio (AP) — When Old Dog Tray ends his days, he's likely to find a final resting spot in a placid pet cemetery like the Boston Hills Pet Memorial Park.

More than 1,300 pets — ranging from parakeets to a kin-kajou — already are buried here. Most graves are decorated only with flowers, but a growing number of the graves now feature headstones that have their occupants' photographs engraved upon the stone.

For a few additional dollars the resting spot will be lit by candlelight thrice a year. And the owner can visit the grave whenever he chooses, knowing his pet lies in a $300 waterproof coffin.

When veterinarian Laddie Rasi established the Boston Hills cemetery across from his office 28 years ago, he did it as a favor to one of his customers. And he didn't expect it to turn into a business.

That was in 1945, before the three monkeys, two rabbits, the lamb, the parakeets, the myna bird, the three horses, the kin-kajou and untold hundreds of dogs and cats.

Thirty-one-year-old Al Rasi, Laddie's son, quit his job as a commercial artist in nearby Akron several years ago and moved out to the house beside the cemetery, which had turned into a fulltime business.

Burials average two or three a week, and the starting price is $55. That pays for a plywood coffin, a plot of ground big enough for a cat or a small dog, and a concrete plug marking the gravesite.

Popular recently is a headstone engraved with a picture of the pet, and a growing number of owners have chosen cremation for their animals.

The gravestones carry such inscriptions as "Tootsie, Our Precious Baby, She Gave Us The True Meaning of Love," or "Candy, Our Pets Only Die When We Whom They Love Have Forgotten Them."

But across the cemetery lies Jet, a blind Akron woman's seeing eye dog. "Jet, My Most Faithful Leader Dog" is the inscription beside a lithograph of the dog and mistress. Below, a second inscription is added in Braille.

One corner of the pet funeral home features a "viewing room," a last chance for a glimpse of the pet snuggled between white satin cushions.

At the owner's request, Rasi will say a few parting words at burial: "Connie was not a famous dog. She lived a simple life. All she wanted was to please her master, to love openly and have her love returned in good faith."

Doesn't all of that strike Rasi as being a little silly?

"Sometimes," he admitted. But the Rasis have buried five of their own dogs in the cemetery, and he remembered crying at one of the burials.

"Most of our customers are older people," he said. "They've been home alone, lived 10 or 15 years with the animal and it's become part of the family. They've gotten friendship, companionship and loyalty from the animal."

Weicker Contends Nixon Is Wrong on Tax Deductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he gave $570,000 worth of pre-presidential papers to the National Archives in order to claim them as an income tax deduction. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., says an exhaustive investigation shows Nixon is wrong.

Weicker's 11-page legal memorandum turned over to the Internal Revenue Service on Tuesday with 26 supporting documents raises new questions concerning the deduction, which the White House detailed in an extraordinary disclosure of the President's finances last weekend.

The documents clearly indicate the defense of the deduction the White House is making now is not the one intended by the presidential lawyers who handled the transaction and tax return in 1969. Weicker said neither defense can stand the tests required by federal tax laws.

The Weicker memorandum points out there were two ways the gift could have been made in order to have met the legal requirements for claiming it as an income tax deduction.

Because Congress in December 1969 abolished the deduction for the appraised value of such papers made after July 25, 1969, the President would have had to have met either requirement by the deadline, Weicker said.

Nixon's two choices were: —To deed the papers to the National Archives with a legally authorized agent, delivery of the deed to the archives with a legally sufficient description of the gift and acceptance of the deed by the archivist.

—Actual delivery of the gift. The senator said this would require that the papers be physically turned over to the archives, that they be specifically identified and accepted as a gift with the President surrendering "dominion and control" of the documents to the recipient.

The White House financial the gift met the deductibility dered before the July 25, 1969, were delivered as part of a ments until December 1969, five 10, 1970, Weicker said.

Sudanese Museum Spans Time

KHARTOUM. The Sudan (AP) — The large sign advises travelers leaving the Sudan to leave their weapons behind, make sure their travel permits are in order and be able to prove they are on legitimate business.

In these days of guerrilla skyjacking and terrorist bombings such signs must be expected, you say.

Right, but this sign, carved in hieroglyphics on a stone, was written before camels or horses were introduced to the Sudan, much less skyjackers, some 3,600 years ago.

It was an early Egyptian effort to keep out troublemakers. In the same hall today is a statue of the biggest Sudanese troublemaker known to ancient Egypt, Taharqa, whose father's armies took much of Egypt before Taharqa himself occupied Egypt as far north as the Nile delta near present-day Cairo.

The Sudanese occupied Egypt, rather than vice versa, from 750 to 666 B.C., when Taharqa's forces were driven back. A temple said to dwarf even Abu Simbel was built in his honor.

Taharqa was the last of the powerful kings of Kush, who ruled the northern Sudan for 700 years.

The two items are among more than 3,000 displayed in the Sudan National Museum, one of the most modern in Africa or the Middle East, near the confluence of the Blue and White Nile Rivers.

The spacious, air-conditioned museum, opened in 1971, spans some 6,500 years of Sudanese history and includes many objects rescued by some 22 international archeological expeditions who discovered some 2,000 new sites during digging behind the Aswan High Dam's rising waters from 1960 to 1972.

The dam, in Egypt, flooded about 35 miles beyond the Sudanese-Egyptian border, covering known and unknown Sudanese monuments, and the town of Wadi Halfa, forever.

Some 90 per cent of the present display, put together with Unesco assistance during the Nubian monument salvage operation, is from the now-flooded area, according to senior curator Akasha Mohamed Ali.

But Ali, trained in Britain, is actively building up a collection from the million square mile vastness of the Sudan — largest country in Africa — with some 600 different tribal groupings.

Synagogue News

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue, at 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday 8 p.m., followed by an Oneg Shabbat, and every Saturday 9:30 a.m., followed by a Kiddush.

This Friday the services will be conducted by the members of the USY, the youth group of the congregation.

The Mourners Payer will be offered for the following whose yahrtzeit will be observed in the coming week: Richard Adin, Miriam Goldstein, Bella Jacobs, Joseph Kobran, Mrs. Jacob Lober, George Schwartz, and Elsie Szura.

Saturday morning, during services, the Bar Mitzvah of Marc David Burg, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Burg, will be celebrated. The Bar Mitzvah boy will receive religious gifts from the Sisterhood, the Talmud Torah, and the USY, and the Bar Mitzvah certificate from the congregation. Rabbi Schechtman will give him his Bar Mitzvah lesson.

The holiday of Chanukah begins on Wednesday, Dec. 19. The Chanukah party for the children of the Talmud Torah will be held on Thursday, Dec. 20, at 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served by the Sisterhood. Chanukah gifts will be distributed, and a Chanukah program will be staged. Chanukah services will be conducted by the Kadimah, the pre-teen club of the congregation. Friday evening of Chanukah, The Talmud Torah will be closed until the end of the winter vacation.

Temple Emanuel

Sabbath evening services will be held Friday 7:30 p.m. at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn will conduct services assisted by Cantor John Park. Sabbath candles will be kindled by Mrs. Bernhard S. Kramer. The Kiddush prayer will be led by Morton Lurie. The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ameringer and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wolf will be named in special baby naming ceremonies.

Rabbi Eichhorn will speak on Maurice Eisendrath, A Rebel with a Cause. Rabbi Eisendrath recently died after having been president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations for 30 years.

During services the memories of the following persons will be recalled: Dr. Nettie Weintraub, Morris Solomon, Benjamin Fishkin, Julius Appel, Ray Cohen Birnbaum, David Kantrowitz, Minnie Marblestone, Sarah Hymes, Sam Youngman, Sol Appel and Samuel Serrin.

After services an Oneg Shabbat will be held in the Temple Social Hall.

The adult study group, Similarities and Differences in Judaism will meet Monday 8 p.m. All interested persons may attend. Adult Hebrew classes will be held Tuesday evening.

The first candle of Chanukah will be kindled Wednesday, Dec. 19. Chanukah Sabbath services will be held Friday, Dec. 21. College students home on vacation may attend.

Persons wishing to affiliate with the congregation may contact Albert Spiegel, Harold Monashelsky or Rabbi Eichhorn.

Agudas Achim

Congregation Agudas Achim, an orthodox Synagogue at 254 Lucas Avenue is the only local synagogue with daily services. The weekday services are 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday evening services are at sundown. Saturday morning services are at 8:30. Sunday 8 a.m. Sabbath candles are lit at 4:05 p.m. Friday. All services are conducted by Cantor Herman Simovits.

The Saturday Torah reading is Sedra Vayashve, found in Genesis Chapters 37-40 and tells the story of Joseph and his brothers, his sale to Egypt and his imprisonment there.

The first candle of Chanukah will be light Wednesday, Dec. 19. For seven more days candles are added until all eight candles are light on the last night of the holiday.

Wendrow at Meeting

Paul J. Wendrow, chief pharmacist at Kingston Hospital, attended the recent convention of the New York State Council of Hospital Pharmacists at Kutsher's Country Club in Monticello.

Sheldon G. Gilgore, president of Pfizer Pharmaceuticals, addressed the group on the impact of government regulations on the pharmaceutical industry and health care.

Kurt Kleinmann of Montefiore Hospital and Medical Center, the Bronx, is president of the association. Ralph McGarrity of St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, is president-elect.

Seniors Bus Trip

Senior citizens of Wiltwyck Gardens in Kingston will sponsor a bus trip to Albany on Tuesday, Dec. 18.

After touring the New York State Museum of the Arts, the group will have lunch in Colonie.

Mrs. Henry Finn, Apartment 7-C, Wiltwyck Gardens, may be contacted for information.

By TIM SCHUSTER

POUGHKEEPSIE, commenting that he thinks people are intelligent enough to determine whether or not they want to buy something. "I've used a lot of Gillette products because they work," he said in example. "I have never met one person in my life so dumb he would buy something again if it didn't work."

Cohen noted in his opening statement before a group of persons he later sought political support from. "As your Congressman I would prefer not to make laws. I want to repeal laws. We should take power away from the politicians and bureaucrats and give decision making back to individual citizens."

He maintained that the only legitimate concerns of government should be national defense; providing police protection; and operating a court system, all necessary to "protect and guarantee individual rights."

UCCC Workshop Is Planned

STONE RIDGE
The Department of Public Service at Ulster County Community College will offer a one day Workshop on Photography for Law Enforcement on Tuesday, Jan. 15, at the Stone Ridge campus.

The Workshop will be conducted by Kenneth G. Schwefler, a technical sales representative for the Eastman Kodak Company.

Topics to be discussed will include photographic principles, the use of the basic camera, and special police identification and investigative uses of photography.

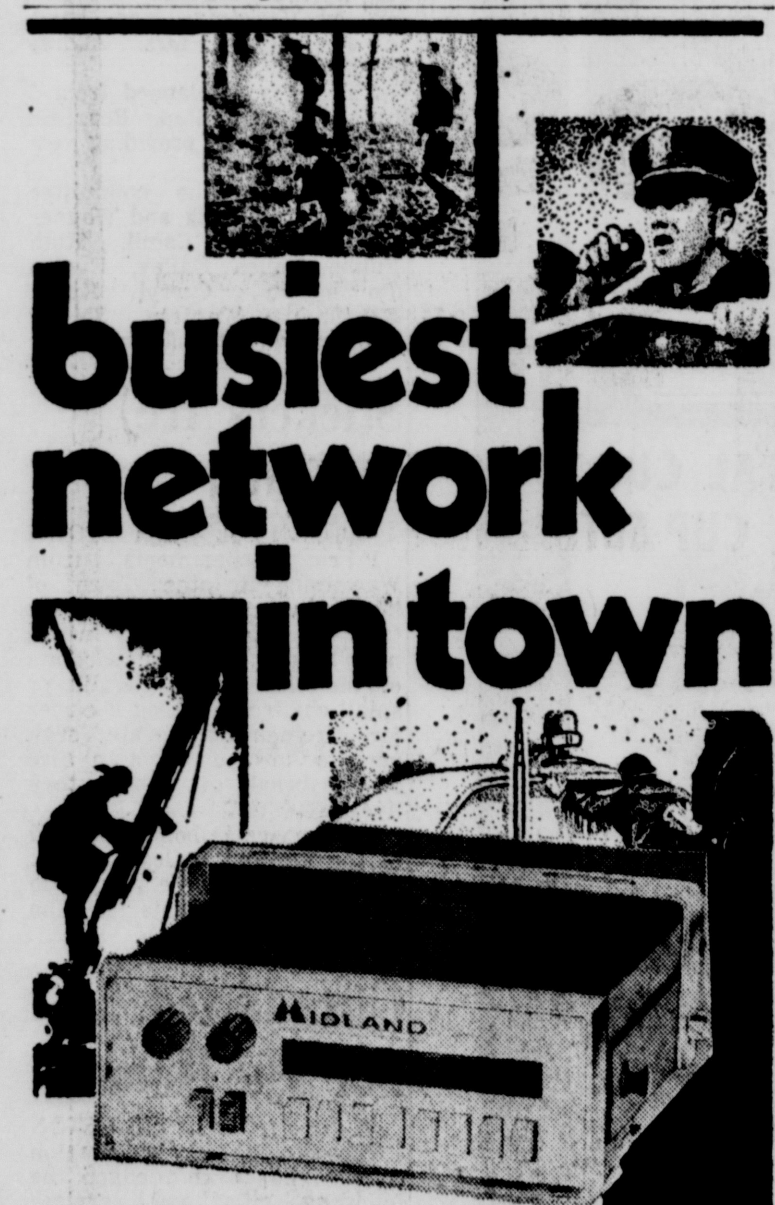

Attendance at the Workshop will be limited to employed professional law enforcement officers recommended by their local police chiefs.

Associate Professor Theodore E. Dietz, coordinator of Law Enforcement at the College, is making arrangements for the Workshop.

"This workshop will provide an opportunity for members of our local police departments to obtain expert assistance in an important aspect of law enforcement," said Professor Dietz. "Mr. Schwefler's experience should make this Workshop most valuable."

Cohen said he believed people are becoming apathetic is not because they don't care, but because they haven't had alternatives in government. "Which guy is going to lie to me less?" he asked.

He also attacked government

Doing the Right Thing

By Elizabeth L. Post
© 1973, Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: A relative visited me for several days and nights recently. When she left, she left a note and "hostess gift" on my pillow.

I know it is proper to bring a gift, but I did not appreciate the way it was done. A friend of mine says she does this, and she says I am ready for the "funny farm" to feel this way.

When I visit I like to hand my hostess her gift because I am so happy to give it. Is this wrong?

Mrs. J. Fleming
Dear Mrs. Fleming: I don't think you are ready for the "funny farm", or if you are, I am too. Gifts should be handed to the hostess in person, as though they were really an expression of appreciation—not slipped to her on the sly as if you were embarrassed or ashamed of them.

I know that people do this sort of thing out of shyness, and you certainly should not hold it against your guest, who, I'm sure, meant well, but give your friend this column to read so that she won't upset you or anyone else she visits by leaving her gift on the pillow.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have been disputing the question of who should fix the drinks when we have company. I say the host should fix the drinks and the hostess prepare the food. He says the host should be fixing the drinks and the hostess helping him, which means leaving the guests alone while we both leave the room. We will abide by your decision.

Barbara
Dear Barbara: I'm on your side. You and your husband should divide the chores so that one of you can be with your guests most of the time. If he needs help with the drinks he can enlist the aid of one of his male friends, leaving you free to circulate. Once most of the bar chores are over, he can move around while you see to the necessary preparations in the kitchen. You should both have everything possible arranged in advance in your respective departments, so that neither of you must be busy for too long a time.

Penny Social
A penny social with many added features will be held Saturday 1 p.m. at the Rondout Community Center, Broadway and Spring Street. Proceeds will benefit the Parents Head Start program. The public may attend.

Mara Going Outside Family?

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Alex Webster bowed out of the season finale Sunday before Wednesday and he may have taken an era with him.

In an emotion-filled scene, Webster resigned as head coach of the New York Giants—a strong coach and/or general manager to run the team that has been almost a family tradition, handed down from one generation to the next.

The team has had just four coaches since 1931 and each new coach has always been on the staff of the man he replaced. But after Webster resigned, owner Wellington Mara issued a statement saying the seven assistant coaches "will be free to seek other employment as soon as our season is completed." Webster was a kid in the training camp and his staff will direct the team against Minnesota in the part of his family and it's been almost impossible for him to relinquish any of his authority.

But Mara's statement could be the first hint that he is to take a bold step and do just that.

Webster, a surprise choice of the week before the start of the 1969 regular season when Mara made the difficult decision to fire Allie Sherman, was in a usual mold of Giants coaches. He joined the team as a player in 1955 and was one of Mara's favorites—a guy who always gave 100 percent.

"I feel like Well is a father," Webster said. "I'm very close to him and his family and the Giant organization."

But Webster said he made a decision because "it's time for a complete change."

Mara was not at the team's practice headquarters Wednesday. It was as if he could not bear to be there for the emotional scene. A Giant spokesman announced he was in Philadelphia for the meeting of CEPO, the scouting combine.

The Giants went 6-0 in the exhibition season but fell to a 2-10-1 mark during the regular season. That left Webster with a five-year mark of 29-39-1.

In the statement issued for Mara, he said, "I have known for weeks that Alex was as bitterly disappointed as I at the failure of our team this season and at his inability to motivate the players."

Webster said he called Mara in Los Angeles Monday before the game's 40-6 loss to the Rams Monday night and informed the owner of his decision during a "long discussion."

Webster, known as "Big Red" and often called a "man's man" and a "player's coach," seemed to be a victim of circumstances. No one claimed he was the greatest coach in football but as defensive coach Jim Garrett said, "he gave him exactly what they wanted, no more, no less. He turned the ship around."

But years of poor draft picks and bad drafts had left the Giants with a thin team. The front line players were respectable but there was no depth and injuries ruined them.

"Even (Don) Shula couldn't have stopped what happened here this year," Garrett said.

The players backed Webster to a man—even the ones who disagreed with him.

For example, Charlie Evans was suspended by Webster this year after the coach challenged him to fight him. "That happened just because he was frustrated and I happened to be the guy he took his frustration out on," Evans said.

He added, "don't blame him for what happened. If he had a chance to block and tackle, he'd do it a lot better than a lot of the guys on the team."

Evans said he was "ashamed" by the team's showing Monday night. "It looked like they just quit," he said. "It looked like they lost every ounce of pride."

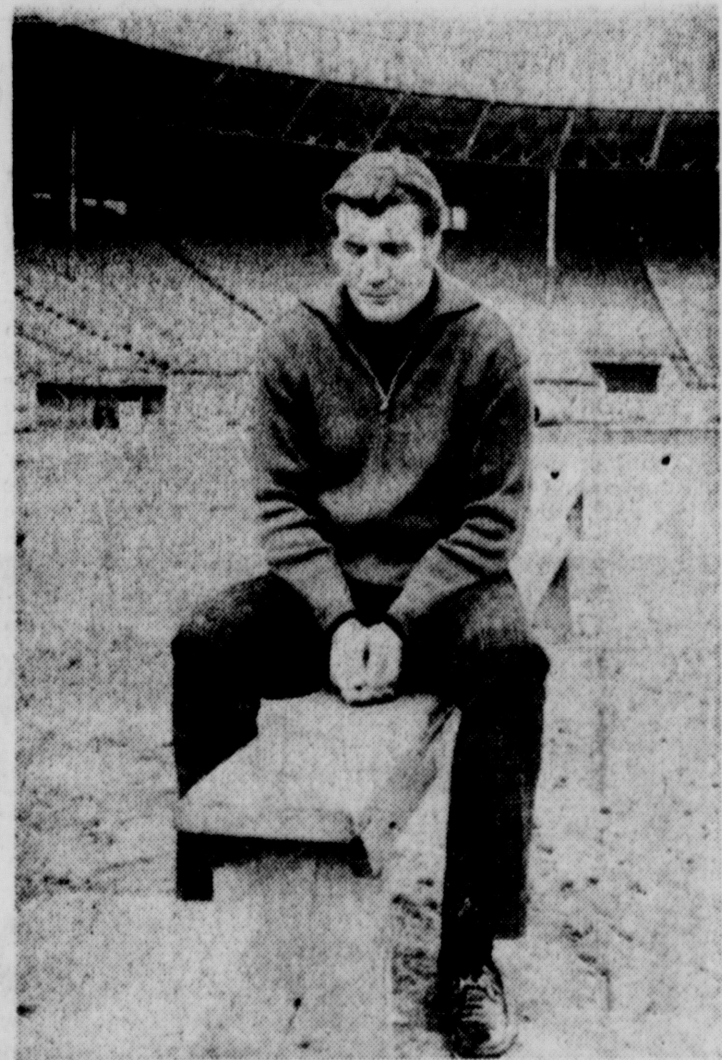

Greg Larson said, "he's shouldering the whole blame and it's a long way from the truth. I don't think it's right. He treated everybody the way he wanted to be treated as a player. But some guys didn't know how to handle it. The sad thing is that we had the utopia players always strive for and we blew it."

Bob Tucker said, "I'm sorry to see him go. It wasn't his fault. You've got to put the fault right in the lockerroom."

Jim Files said, "he apologized to us but he didn't have any need to apologize."

Spider Lockhart said, "he was perfect for us but some people take advantage of a lax year after the coach challenged him to fight him. That happened just because he was frustrated and I happened to be the guy he took his frustration out on."

He added, "don't blame him for what happened. If he had a

GOODBYE ALEX — Giants' Coach Alex Webster sits forlornly on a bench at Roosevelt Stadium in Jersey City following announcement that he is resigning. (UPI)

Namath's Future in Doubt

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Namath could be in a new uniform next year. Or he could be in no uniform at all.

Namath, who has been riddled with injuries for the last three years, will probably start at quarterback for the New York Jets Sunday against the Buffalo Bills at Shea Stadium. But Wednesday he indicated that might be it for him.

"I don't know if I'll be back," he said, "choosing his words carefully. 'It could very well be. It's all according to how I feel and right now I can't say whether I'll be back or not next year. Right now my immediate goal is doing a good job this week. I'm not looking past this week. I don't have to make that decision right now.'"

Namath has just completed the final year of a two-year contract estimated at $250,000 a year.

Grinding his hands and fingers nervously, Namath also discussed what was once unthinkable—a trade.

"There's also the possibility that someone might not want me to play here. If I do get traded, it would have to be to a contender or a warm weather team. At this stage of my career, I'm not about to go somewhere where they're rebuilding."

"Like for instance, I wouldn't go to New England. Not that I have anything against the people up there but they're not a contender—and it's too cold. I wouldn't go to Buffalo or St.

Louis or a few other places. But what's the difference. You're not able to pick anywhere. I've been here nine years."

There could be a choice next year, however, and Namath could be the major factor in getting it off the ground. It's the newly proposed World Football League and Namath's attorney, Jim Walsh, has been talking with officials of the new league for more than two months.

"I haven't talked to anybody and I don't know anything about it," Namath said. "It's none of my business. My lawyer is talking with them. I have a job right now. The big thing is that I want to play for a winner. I don't want to go to a new team just to play."

Winning is something that has come hard for Namath since he led the Jets to their much-heralded Super Bowl victory over the Baltimore Colts in January, 1969. Since then, he has been unable to defeat a winning team. He missed a good portion of the 1970 season with a broken wrist and most of 1971 when he injured his knee in a pre-season game. In September, he suffered a separated shoulder in the second regular season game and didn't return until Nov. 18.

He played two full games but missed Sunday's game against Philadelphia because of pain in his knee.

THE COUPLE—Police found this photo in the motel room in Santo Domingo in which Altavracia de la Cruz, 19, was fatally shot. It shows the girl with Houston baseball star Cesar Cedeno, who is charged with "voluntary manslaughter" in the shooting of the girl. (UPI)

Cedeno Hearing Continues

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (UPI) — Cesar Cedeno, the star centerfielder of the Houston Astros, spent a second night in jail last night, charged with "voluntary homicide" in the motel shooting of a 19-year-old girl.

Magistrate Socrates Diaz Curiel continued Cedeno's preliminary hearing today after interrogating Cedeno and the first of four other witnesses called yesterday. The hearing is closed.

Cedeno, 22, was charged with the pistol slaying of Altavracia de la Cruz, 19. The police report termed the killing accidental. Police said the girl took the .38 caliber pistol in her hands to examine it and it he is tried for involuntary manslaughter, he would be freed on bond pending trial. The voluntary count carries a three-to-10 year sentence. The maximum sentence for "involuntary manslaughter" is three years, and the judge may even absolve the convicted defendant.

Spec Richardson, the Astros general manager who flew in from Houston, visited Cedeno yesterday in La Fe jail. He said he came to cheer him up and to give him confidence and to find out for myself what state the boy is in.

Richardson said Cedeno was "very concerned about what justice," he said.

Defense Prevails

By United Press International

In sports, don't ever bet that the past is an accurate indicator of the present.

In two previous meetings between the Buffalo Sabres and New York Rangers, both clubs flexed their muscles to run up a total of 25 goals. But when they met again Wednesday night, it was the defense that prevailed and the end result was a 1-1 tie.

"Maybe it was the law of averages," suggested Buffalo goalie Dave Dryden, who did a yeoman job of enforcing the law when he stopped 36 shots, 15 of them in the final period when the Rangers pressed one assault after another in an effort to win.

"And the defense also played well in front of me," he added. "If I stopped the first shot they cleared it for me before New York could get the rebound."

In the only other National Hockey League action, the Philadelphia Flyers skated to a 2-2 tie with the Chicago Black Hawks and the Pittsburgh Penguins snapped a seven-game winless streak by routing the California Golden Seals, 9-1.

In the WHA, New England rallied for an 8-6 win over Toronto, Houston edged Winnipeg, 3-2. Jersey downed Cleveland, 4-2. Los Angeles trounced Edmonton, 7-2, and Vancouver nipped Quebec, 2-1, in overtime.

Buffalo scored its lone goal in the last second of play of the opening period. Ranger goalie Gilles Villeneuve came far out of his net to smother a shot by Don Luce but the rebound skittered away from him. Craig Ramsay came up with the puck about 30 feet from the net and sent it into the open cage just before the buzzer.

Limited Quantities

You can buy a little AM/FM radio for twenty bucks. So why spend $119.95?

The answer is obviously better sound. But how much better? The fact is that most radio stations, particularly FM stations, are putting out a terrific signal. But by the time the music reaches you via a dinky radio, it sounds like it's coming through a paper cup on a string. What serious music listeners have always needed was a serious high fidelity radio. A radio with super sensitivity. And an AM section that made even traffic reports, time checks, "pop forties" and "moldy oldies" sound good. In short, what was needed was the KLH Model Twenty-One... a neat, compact AM-FM radio that delivers an astonishing amount of sound. Now you might think it takes a lot of nerve to charge $119.95 for a small radio. Not really. What it takes is a lot of radio. Hear it soon. The KLH Model Twenty-One AM-FM radio.

St. John's Opens With Win

St. John's of West Hurley opened its 1973-74 Ulster County CVO basketball season with a 27-21 Small Fry overtime win over Immaculate Conception. The regulation game ended 19-11. Tim Murphy of St. John's led all scorers with 13 points. Other scorers: D. Ortleib 6, D. Ross 4, J. Skinner 2, L. Beck 2, W. Terpening paced Immaculates with 9 and DeCicco had eight.

Ellies Blast Fallsburgh

Paced by Debra Shorter's 27 points and 17 rebounds, Ellenville High School girls routed Fallsburgh, 61-25, in a UCAL varsity basketball game. The Comets never came closer than 14 points to the winners.

Tina Krieger added 10 points for Ellenville. Arlene Aponte scored eight and Diane Wright and Phyllis Moseley six each. Miss Moseley led with 23 rebounds.

Sawyer Girls Streak at 3

Saugerties High girls volleyball team extended its win streak, to three matches, beating Spackenkill in straight games, 15-11 and 15-4. Denise Norman continued her steady serving to highlight the Sawyers' attack in a match that was mainly 'free ball' offense.

Alice Rothmann led the Spackenkill offense. Spackenkill won the exciting Jayvee match, 8-15, 15-8 and 15-13 after a 13-1 tie. Marilyn Stilphen's strong serve highlighted the first game win.

Rondout Girls Rout New Paltz

Rocki DeWitt scored 34 points to pace Rondout Valley High School to a 80-11 rout of New Paltz in an Ulster County Athletic League basketball game. The Ganders also won the Jayvee contest, 20-16.

Rose James added 16 points and Cheryl Degraw 14 for Rondout. Linda Doski coaches the Rondout girls varsity. High scorers in the Jayvee contest were Catherine Navarra 7, Kathleen Navarra 6, Liz DeLeo 6. Sandy Parker is the Jayvee coach.

UCCC to Play Alumni Stars

Fourteen former Ulster County Community College stars will appear in the lineup of the Alumni Super Senators in a benefit game against the current UCCC varsity Thursday, Dec. 27, at 8 p.m., in the Senate gym.

Proceeds of the game will be for the Scholarship Fund Drive sponsored by the UCCC Alumni Association.

Coach Jerry Moss heads the alumni roster which also includes Bill DuBois, coach at Coleman High; Rod Chando, Red Hook High coach; George Druttman, Burt Henderson, Brad Laddie, Coleman Link, Harold Mayfield, Ron Lindsay, Henry Nixon, Tony Pough, Frank Roselli, Cliff Schoonmaker and Larry Tripod.

"We believe we can do a great deal to aid students going to Ulster by giving scholarships," said Jordan, "and that is why we have started this extensive scholarship drive." He said he plans to name a special Alumni committee to decide what type of scholarships will be the most appropriate.

Wallkill Girls Win

Wallkill High girls basketball varsity edged Red Hook, 1972-73 champions, 30-37, in their Ulster County Athletic League opener. The winners led 17-14 at the half.

Bev Vigliando paced the Wallkill attack with 10 points. Bonnie Crawford had nine, Margaret Wilson eight and Barbara Williamson, Alice Crawford and Kathy Morrissey one each.

Elaine O'Pfeffer of Red Hook took game honors with 14 and Shelly Theberge added eight.

WHS Gals Romp

Wallkill High School's girls basketball team made it two straight victories Tuesday by wallowing visiting New Paltz, 45-23 in an Ulster County Athletic League battle.

Margaret Wilson scored 10 points and Trina Kramer added eight to pace a balanced Panther scoring attack. The Huguenots' Nancy Sargent captured game honors with 11 points.

The junior varsity game went the other way with New Paltz taking home a 28-13 decision.

Rams Sign Don Maynard

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Don Maynard, who has caught more passes for more yardage than any player in National Football League history, was signed by Los Angeles Wednesday, becoming eligible for the Rams' final league game and the post-season playoffs.

Rams Coach Chuck Knox would not say whether the 36-year-old wide receiver would be on the active roster for the Cleveland-Los Angeles game here Sunday. The Rams, who have clinched the NFC West title with an 11-2 record, face either Dallas or Washington in the first round of the playoffs.

Maynard, a 15-year-veteran, has caught 633 passes for 11,834 yards in his career. He was traded from the New York Jets to the St. Louis Cardinals this season and then placed on the Cardinals' taxi squad.

He broke Hall of Famer Raymond Berry's career receiving record of 632 passes last season against Oakland but reported to the Jets' camp late this year. He was beaten out of a starting job by Ed Bell and was dealt to St. Louis when he refused to retire.
